

4 Overcome your recency bias.

Recency bias leads us to think that whatever has happened recently is likely to continue. So, when markets are performing well, we think they'll rise forever. When markets fall, we think they'll keep falling. When a crisis strikes, we fear another is just around the corner.

Fight back by reminding yourself that bull markets inevitably end and that market crises typically recover.

